Objectives: ... compose sentences with interesting, elaborated subjects
 ...clarify and support spoken ideas with evidence, elaborations, and examples

The Important Book about The Rain Forest

You have learned a lot about rain forest. Now you can write your own book about the rain forest. First make a simple, eight page book from one piece of paper. Follow these directions:

Now you can write your book about the rain forest. Use The Important Book by Margaret Wise Brown as a pattern for your book.

The first page should say, "The important thing about the rain forest is ____ ____ ____ ____." Fill in the blanks with what you think the most important thing about the rain forest is. The second page should tell one thing they do. The third page should tell one more thing they do. Continue in the same way until you finish seven pages. The last page (the 8th) should say, "But the important thing about the rain forest is ____." It should be the same as the first page.

Illustrate each page with bright colorful pictures. Share it with your friends.
